

SITE CONTEXT & CONNECTIVITY

Plot D, as part of New Garden Square, is well-connected within Birmingham, with access to a range of sustainable transport options and local amenities.

Plot D is a short walk or cycle into the city centre, and benefits from a tram stop at Edgbaston Village. This provides direct connections to Birmingham New Street Station. Five Ways Train Station is also a short walk away.

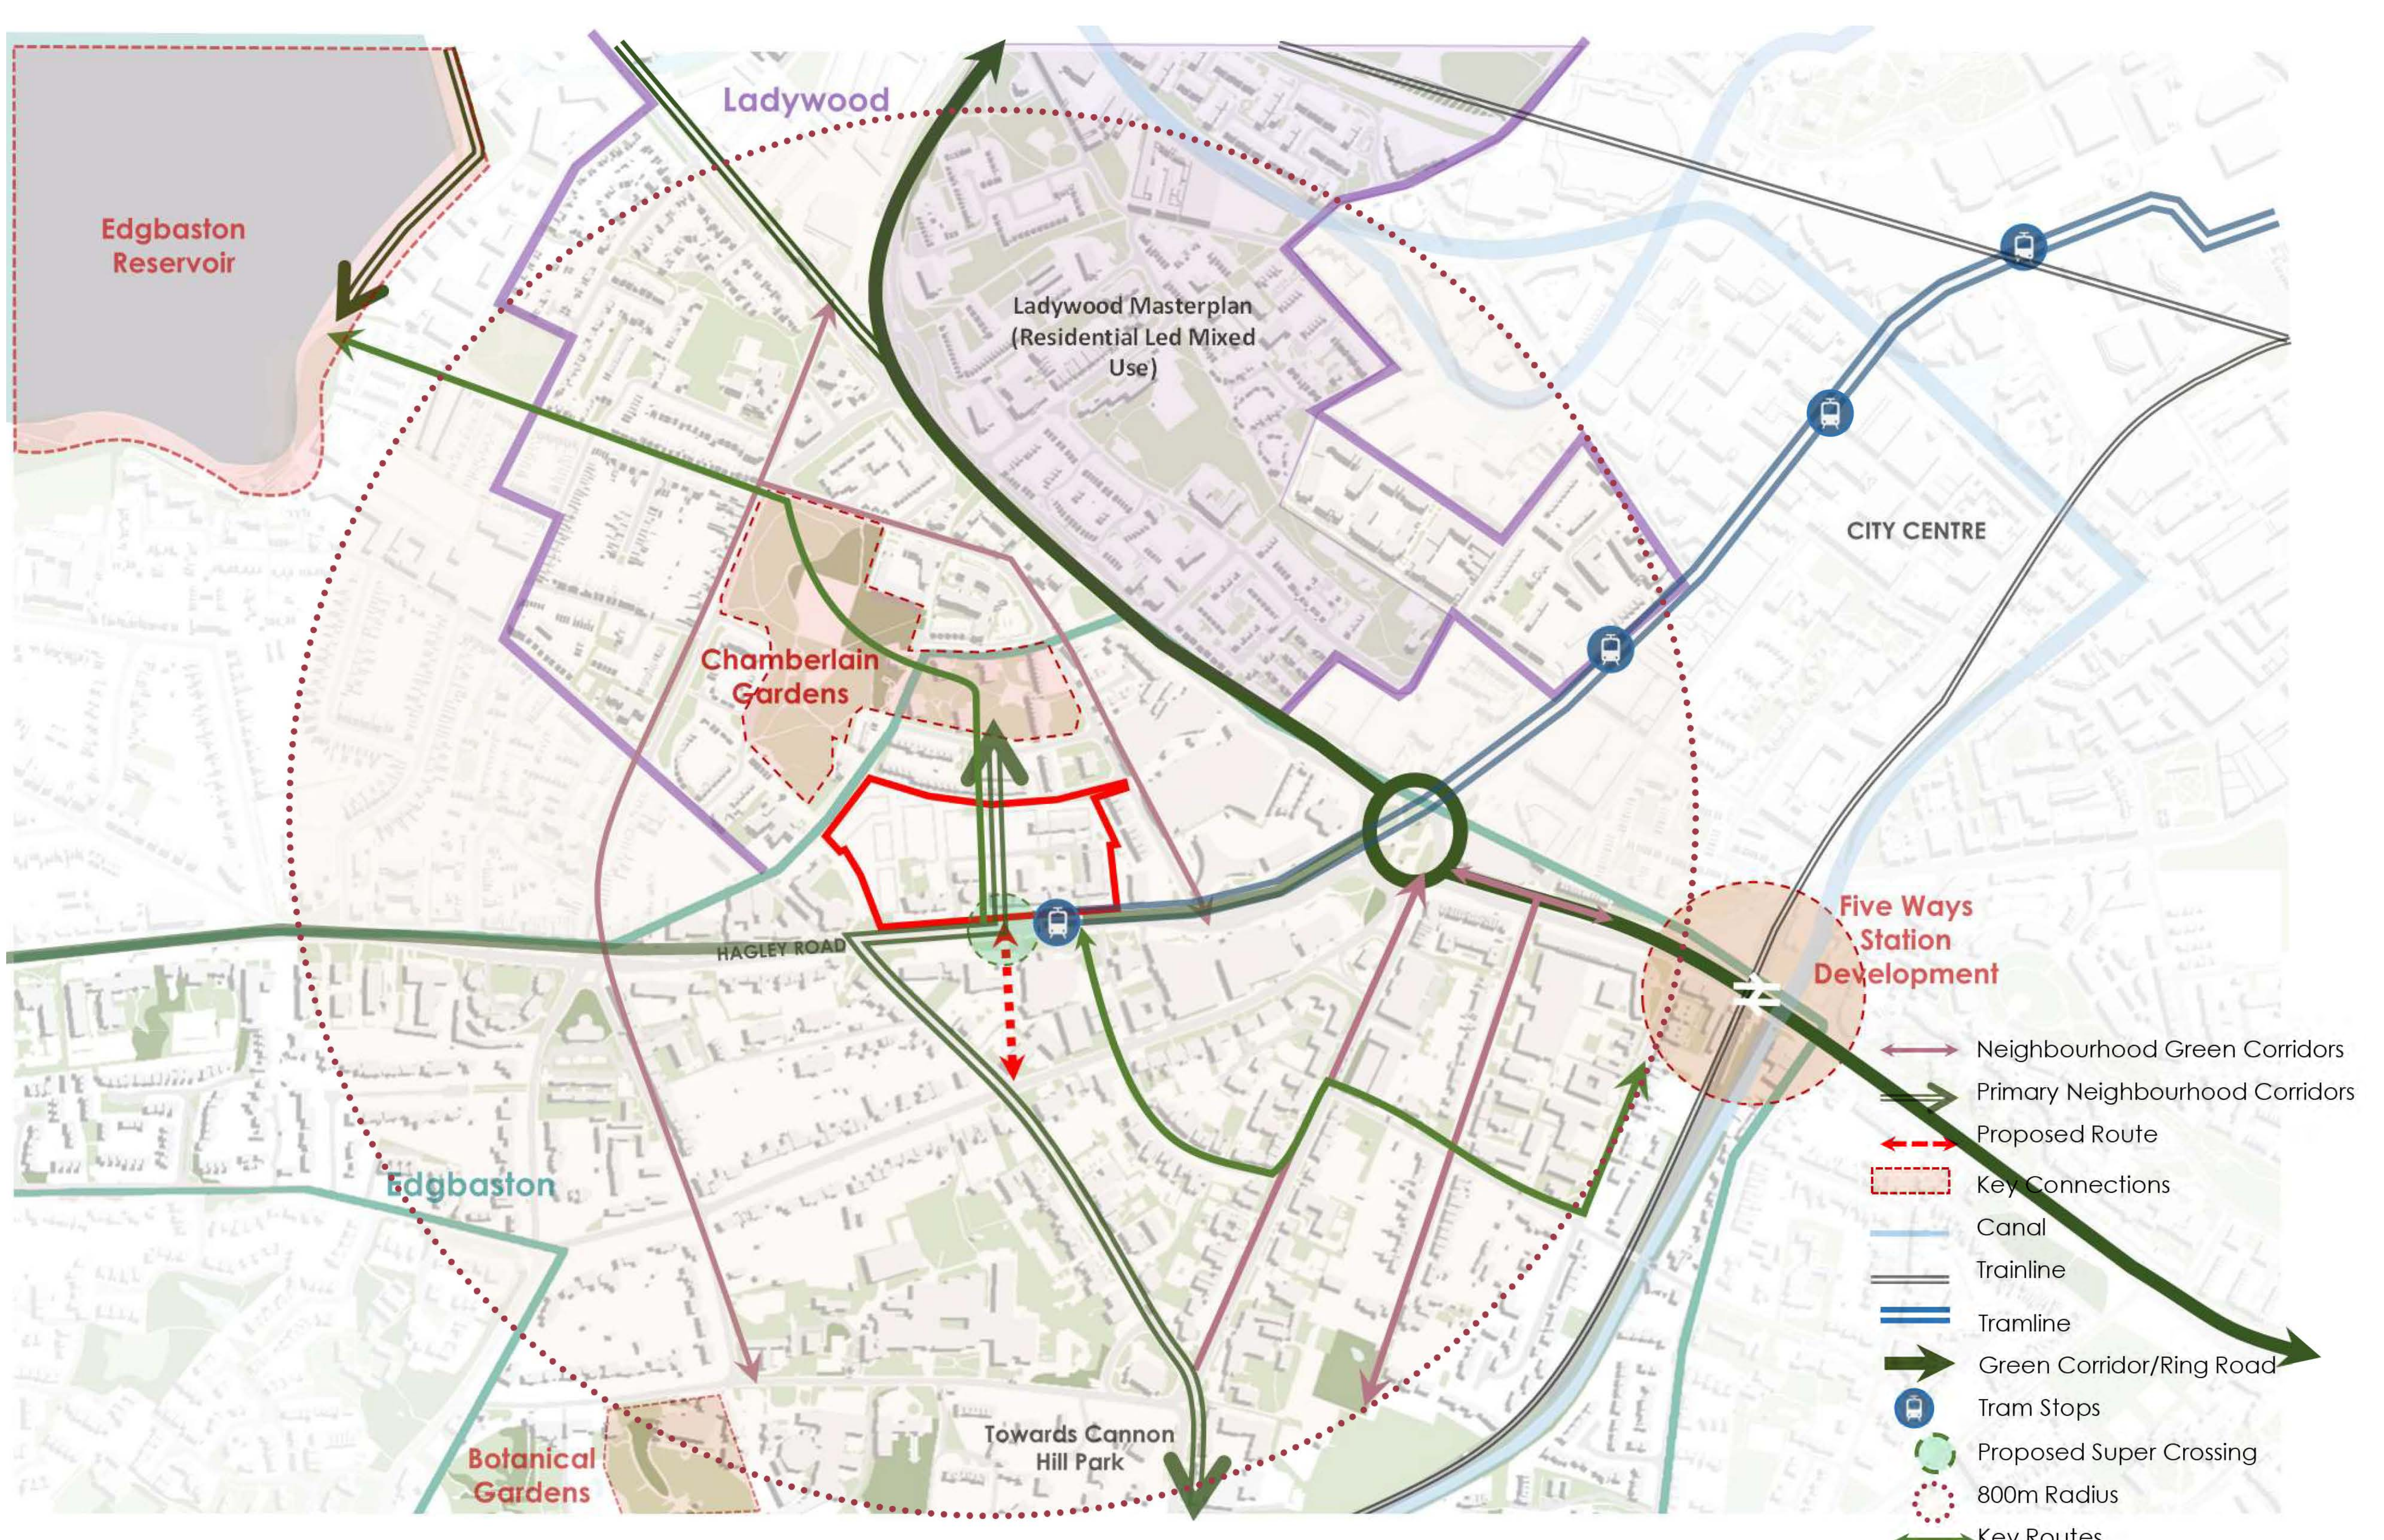

Regular bus services are also available along the Hagley Road. The proposals have been designed to support opportunities to remodel Hagley Road to include a new pedestrian crossing and allow for further 'greening' of the road.

Ample cycle-storage spaces will be provided for residents, to encourage cycling. This includes enhancing links between the Hagley Road and Chamberlain Gardens, extending towards the Edgbaston Reservoir.

Car parking will be provided on-site at Plot D, and a generous proportion of these will include EV charging points, as well as carpool spaces.
